"TRE students at the colleges for women in this country have followed the example of their brothers and have organized societies, athletic teams. glee clubs, and, in fact, have copied into their college life everything possible to follow the men, even the college yell," writes an American college girl from Europe. "The women students of Germany are doing the same thing, and if they keep on we shall hear of duels, although the scarred cheek or snipped uose would be a more serious matter with a woman than it seems to be with some men. That the female students expect to have their beer bouts there can be no doubt, for there has just been issued a kommerse song book containing some songs as suggestive of big mugs and froth and a sad awakening on the morrow as any of the original corps students glees."

CANNONISM has been on the wane for some time. The czar and his cigar are only on probation, are not liabel to now objects of ridicule instead of respect. The insurgents of Chanutte, Kansas, sent the following telegram yesterday to the Speaker who campaigned in Kansas:

FROM WASHINGTON.

Militia, with a story of complete success, broken only by the drowning of two negro sailors Wednesday afternoon off Indian Head. Members of the crew were engaged in boat races Wednesday. when the boat in which the two negroes were rowing capsized. Two white sailors sprang from a competing boat and tried to save them, but were exhausted. The rescuers nearly lost their lives and were unconscious when hauled aboard a barge. The dead are: Cicero Simms, coal passer, and Ernest S. Trotter, fireman. Their bodies were not recovered. The charges of overwork, poor food and mistreatment told by the deserters were denied by all on board. The citizen sailors apparently were all delighted with the cruise and the only possible ground for complaint, it was said, was a slight accident to the water condenser which made it necessary to use brackish water for a short time. Not a man was in the "brig" during the cruise; the boys in the stock hole reported that they had enjoyed themselves and a Round Robin, originating in the "coal pit" was signed by practically everyone on board denouncing the deserters. It was stated that only five men left the ship and that ef these, Allen Lloyd was the only regular member of the militia, the other four being on probation. The officers were so bitter in their denunciation of the deserters that there was no prospect of a reconciliation. They asserted that these five men had expected a pleasure trip and were so disappointed when they found they had to work that they ran away. It was stated that formal charges, preparatory to a court martial, would be filed against Lloyd. The others, being

Mysterious Murder.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 6.-The police have discovered no clue to the murderer of William L. Rice, member of the law firm on Blandin, Rice & Ginn, who was found dying from bullet wounds last night within sight of his palatial home on Euclid Heights. The police adhere to the theory that this is strengthened by the declaration of members of his household that Rice had no known enemy.

Two bullet wounds over the right fatal, and a deep gash on the left hand more assailants.

One feature which tends to shake the arrival of Night Watchman Wahl, who ran toward the spot directly upon hearing the shots. He says, however, that he saw no one in the vicinity.

BRYAN CLAIMS VICTORY.

In an editorial in the Commoner, William J. Brvan says the recent repudiation of himself by the Nebraska state democratic convention was really a victory for him and for county option, for which he stands. In part he says:

'Mr. Bryan announced himself in layor of an indorsement of county option as the only way to break the hold of the liquor interests and insure the submission of the initiative and referendum

'As a result of his fight the republicans indorsed the initiative and referendum, thus making it certain it will be submitted at the coming session of the Legislature (the democrats and populists also having indorsed). This is a victory of the reform for which he has contended for 14 years. He can afford to be turned down on county option if he can make sure of the nitiative and referendum.'

Governor Shallenberger, announced at the convention that he would sign a county option bill. The chances are largely in favor of its passage.
